ACRE PROGRAM IS MULTI-FACETED

STORY BY MARSHA HEWITT / PHOTOS BY KYLE PLAYER

One of the SC Department of Agriculture’s most innovative projects is ACRE, the Agribusiness Center for Research and Entrepreneurship.

Although only a year old, ACRE has identified six areas of focus – Research, Entrepreneurship, Farm Link, Agribusiness Grants, Food Hub/Local Food Network and Policy. However, after continuing to discuss and research the state’s agriculture needs, executive director Kyle Player reports that the largest upcoming emphasis of the program will be encouraging agricultural entrepreneurs and researchers.

The entrepreneurship program has two tracks, aimed at different levels. The fall program is for beginners -- those who have ideas but don’t know where to take them. Through a series of free courses, ACRE helps them to learn the fundamentals of starting a business, including writing a business plan and developing a marketing strategy. In addition, grant funds are available:

last year five people each got $5,000 to turn their ideas into reality, ranging from fresh flowers to alpacas to hydroponics.

The spring program (Track 1) is the advanced program, which helps people who are already developing and maybe even marketing their products. ACRE gives them the opportunity to pitch their product to a panel of judges, who then decide which entrepreneurs receive funding. Last year the five entrepreneurs each received up to $25,000.

“Part of my job responsibility includes monitoring progress of our entrepreneurs by completing site visits, reading their progress and budgets,” Player continued. The recipients are assigned mentors and other professional services to ensure their commercial success.

The new set of entrepreneur applications will go live on March 11, with a deadline of May 1. Player said the process is intense, and the would-be entrepreneurs are required pitch their projects to judges on June 4.

Although the process is intense, the results are exciting, she said.

“Last year, Sam Norton received funds to help him grow sea cucumbers in the marsh in Charleston, fully irrigated with salt water. At low tide, he uses a solar irrigation pump. At high tide, the natural process takes over.”

In addition to funding agricultural entrepreneurs, ACRE

One of the research projects requires people to work in yurts for intense, hands-on farming.

is also heavily involved in supporting demand-driven, marketable research in a diverse range of agricultural needs.

Grant money is currently funding eight research projects that were determined to have the most potential for success. A board of agricultural experts selected these research projects.

“All the money goes directly to the researcher. We bring the money; they bring the expertise,” she said.

“The whole point is not to just do research, but to help commercialize that research when complete. We want companies to bring their processing facilities, factories, and support systems to South Carolina because we have the means to solve their problems,” Player explained.

BE MINDFUL OF PEANUTS

March is National Peanut Month, and SCDA staff member Marianne Copelan, who works with our peanut farmers, came across some interesting information recently about peanuts. We know they have always been promoted for their health benefits, but they are being heavily promoted for the new MIND diet, which is one of the hottest nutrition trends around.

MIND stands for Mediterranean Intervention for Neurodegenerative Delay. No wonder they just call it MIND. The diet claims to improve cognition, or brain function, which most of us can use! The concept originated from studies of dementia at Chicago’s Rush University Medical Center.

According to The Peanut Institute’s research director, Dr. Samara Sterling, the MIND diet can prevent mental decline. Foods that are rich in brain-healthy nutrients, like dark green leafy vegetables, berries and peanuts, are called “brain foods.” Eating more of those foods is good for us, mentally and physically. I’m all for that!

We all know that peanuts are a delicious part of our Southern culture. But it’s even better to know that our favorite snack food can help our brains stay healthy! As part of a nutrient-dense diet, Dr. Sterling suggests that we eat a lot of them. As a peanut farmer, so do I.

Since peanuts are excellent sources of niacin and good sources of vitamin E., the MIND diet recommends eating five or more servings of nuts (including peanuts) each week. They go so far as to suggest eating a handful of peanuts, or two tablespoons of peanut butter, almost every day, or better yet, every day.

We probably have all had peanuts roasted or boiled. But a way that I’ve come to really like is fried. Blanche picked up on this cooking option from SCDA staff member and Cameron neighbor Ansley Rast Turnblad. Deep fried in peanut oil and flavored with a little sea salt, watch them disappear. I brought some to the office last fall and got back an empty jar in a few days.

While this information about the MIND diet probably won’t influence our farmers to increase their acreage, it might give them a mental boost. In South Carolina, we grow two varieties of peanuts. Sixty percent are runners, which are used in peanut butter and other processed foods. The rest are Virginia peanuts, the ones we roast and eat as snacks.

Farmers will start planting peanuts soon—provided their fields are dry enough—and try to finish planting by April. We averaged about 87,000 acres of peanuts in our state last year, but farmers may not plant quite that much this spring. There are lots of reasons for that, but we’re hoping Mother Nature will cooperate with all our farmers as they begin planting.

So, eat more peanuts! They’re good for your brain.

WE'VE MADE SOME CHANGES TO OUR POLICIES

In response to a reader survey we conducted last summer, the Market Bulletin is making some changes, starting with the next issue. Our new design has been accepted extremely well, so now we are upgrading some of our policies.

You, our readers, told us you want more ads, and you want the process to be easier.

You have asked to renew ads by phone, so now you can, provided there are no changes to the ad. Call 803-734-2536 to request that your ad run again.

Another change—if you list your ad in the wrong category and the ad submission is complete, we will change it for you.

Advertisements are accepted for South Carolina products, even if the seller lives out of state, provided the item is in state at the time the ad runs and at the time of sale. We can't accept ads from agents in any category, including real estate or equipment.

We don't charge for classified ads. Items for sale must include a price.

We do have to limit ads to 150 characters, including name, county, and phone number. While we don't run your address, we need your name, address, zip code, county, and phone number with area code, for our records.

The Market Bulletin reserves the right to edit ads and notices. Ads are received in good faith, and the SC Department of Agriculture assumes no responsibility for their content.

The Bulletin is published on the first and third Thursdays of each month—not every other week. Our goal is better customer service for our readers, so if you think of some other way we can help you, please let us know.

We are sorry, but we cannot accept subscriptions over the phone. Our system is not set up for that. However, you can renew or change your address on line.

The Bulletin is still only $10 a year, and you can subscribe on line by visiting agriculture.sc.gov/market-bulletin.

SUBMITTING ADS

Email: Send ads to marketbulletin@scda.sc.gov. The subject line should specify ad and the category.

Online: Go to agriculture.sc.gov/market-bulletin. Select "Submit Market Bulletin Ad" and complete the form. If you include your email address, the computer will send you a reminder for a renewal.

Mail: SC Market Bulletin, PO Box 11280, Columbia, SC 29211. Please use 8.5 x 11 inch paper.

Fax: 803-734-0659

Please do not use all capital letters.

The deadline for submitting ads and notices is noon on Tuesday of the week before the publication date.

POLICIES FOR ADVERTISING

FARM EQUIPMENT

Ads may not be submitted by commercial dealers.

FARM LABOR

Notices are accepted for agricultural work only and not for housework, nursing or companionship needs.

FARM LAND

Farm land must be offered for sale by the owner, not an agent. Tracts must be at least 5 acres under cultivation, timber or pasture. Out-of-state owners—not real estate agents—may now submit ads for land in South Carolina.

FRESH PRODUCE

Produce must be raw and non-processed. Raw milk, butter and cheese products must be permitted by the SC Department of Health and Environmental Control. Egg producers must be licensed by SCDA.

GARDEN PLANTS & FLOWERS

Ads are not accepted from commercial nurseries, which are defined as having annual sales of $5,000 or more.

HORSES, MULES & DONKEYS

The seller must provide a copy of a current negative Coggins test with the ad. Scanned copies are acceptable.

SEEDS

All seed advertisements must be accompanied by a copy of a current Seed Lab Test.

LIVESTOCK WANTED

Each ad must list specific animals.

COLONIAL PEANUT SOUP

ABOUTPEANUTS.COM/RECIPE/COLONIAL-PEANUT-SOUP

INGREDIENTS

- 2 tbsp butter/margarine
- 2 tbsp grated onion
- 1 branch celery, thinly sliced
- 2 tbsp all purpose flour
- 3 cups chicken broth
- ½ cup creamy peanut butter
- ¼ tsp salt, optional
- 2 tsp lemon juice
- 2 tsp chopped roasted peanuts

DIRECTIONS

Melt butter in a saucepan over low heat; add onion and celery. Sauté for about 5 minutes. Add flour and mix until well blended. Stir in chicken broth and allow it to simmer for about 15 minutes. Remove from heat, strain broth. Stir the peanut butter, salt and lemon juice into the broth until well mixed. Serve hot in cups. Garnish each cup with a teaspoon of chopped peanuts. Makes 6 servings.

BACK YARD POULTRY WORKSHOP: EGG INCUBATION AND EGG HANDLING BASICS

The Livestock and Forages Team with Clemson University Cooperative Extension Service will offer a one-day workshop for back yard poultry owners on Friday, March 29 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Kershaw County Extension Office in Camden.

Participants will learn the basics of egg handling, including guidelines for selling eggs.

The class will cover the basics of setting up an incubator, the incubation process, brooder set up and management, egg handling, egg safety, and egg sales. Agents will also demonstrate how to set up an incubator.

For additional information, contact Gila Holland at the Kershaw County Extension Office, 803-432-9071 or by email ghollan@clemson.edu. To register online, go to tinyurl.com/bpw-kershaw.
